CLASS OF 1919 COMPLETES WORK

FINAL GRADUATION EXERCISES HELD AT M. H. S. LAST NIGHT

ADDRESS BY SNODGRASS

Excellent Address Given by Minister to Graduates on "Service"—Award of Honors and Scholarships.

Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian church, delivered the class day address at the graduating exercises of the class of 1919 last night at the Maryville High School. Rev. W. C. Ferguson opened the exercises with an Invocation, and the class was presented to the Board of Education by Principal L. E. Ziegler. The diplomas were awarded by E. E. Williams and the final number was the award of the scholarships and honors by Supt. J. M. McDonald.

The forty members of the graduating class occupied places of honor on the stage last night and appeared in cap and gown, while a fair sized crowd was present to witness the closing exercises of the school year at Maryville High, and the final high school event of the graduating class.

Rev. Snodgrass, the principal speaker of the evening, took as the keynote of his talk, "Service," and in a strong manner brought before the graduates, the necessity for hard serious work in this life, and the debt which every person owes the community in which he lives.

Rev. Snodgrass illustrated that physical power is a gratifying thing and that strength of body is to be sought, but showed that it is not one of the essentials of a useful life. He also showed that the mind, the great governing power of the human race, may be used for destructive as well as constructive purposes and that it is not the essential factor of a useful and worth while life. Rev. Snodgrass showed that wealth also is not the prime object of life and that riches, often lead to trouble and worry.

The speaker showed that the service which is performed is the thing that counts in this world, and that the man who is performing a utility for his fellowmen and community is invariably the happiest and most contented of persons.

Rev. Snodgrass urged upon the graduates the fact that they are Americans and that nothing is impossible for a real American man or woman. "Americans are the greatest fighters, the greatest workers, and Washington, Lincoln and Wilson are the greatest statesmen the world has ever known," said Rev. Snodgrass, a remark which was greeted with loud applause.

The speaker told of the so-called caste in Great Britain, before the war, in which a certain class known as "gentlemen" did no constructive work for the community, but merely lived as human parasites, and how this class has been practically eradicated since the great war. In the United States they were not known as "gentlemen" said Rev. Snodgrass. "We called them 'tramps.'"

Throughout his talk, Rev. Snodgrass did not confine his remarks to the graduating body, but also spoke to the parents and friends of the students in which he advised the mothers not to have as the prime object of their lives, the marrying of their daughters to rich men.

"The present time is a day of usefulness, work and great opportunities," he said, "and the present day is one of the greatest the world has ever seen for the young person who has a real determination to make good."

At the close of his address, Rev. Snodgrass complimented the members of the class on their work through the past four years and urged upon them that they place a goal before them and continually strive toward it.

Following the talk by Rev. Snodgrass, Principal Zeigler made a short presetation address in which he delivered the class over to the Board of Education. Principal Ziegler congratulated the members on their successful work and upon their loyalty to the institution and their earnest efforts.

In awarding the diplomas Mr. E. E. Williams also congratulated the class on the excellent record which they had made in the school. He said that it is the largest class that has ever left Maryville High and that it has also been one of the best all-around classes in the history of the institution.

In the final award of the Scholarships and Honors Superintendent J. M. McDonald made a brief address of congratulation. Miss Sadie Neal, with an average grade of 94.50 per cent for the four years was the highest honor student of the class, and was awarded Scholarships from the University of Missouri at Columbia and the Missouri College Union, in which she is given the choice of any of the colleges taken in by this affiliation. Miss Roberta Wells was the winner of second honors with an average grade of 92.94 per cent and was awarded the scholarship offered by the State Normal school.

In making the announcement, Supt. McDonald read the grade made by Miss Neal as 90.50, an error which he asked to be corrected in the Press. He also stated that the graduating class includes the students who completed their high school work last February bringing the total number up to fifty.

3 YR. REFORMATORY SENTENCE FOR BOY

LECTURE BY THE COURT

R. W. Carter, the 17 year old youth of Meadville, Mo., who was recently arrested at Brookfield, Mo., following the passage of several worthless checks on the State bank at Hopkins, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Dawson in the circuit court this morning and was sentenced to three years in the Reformatory at Booneville.

In passing the sentence Judge Dawson delivered a fatherly lecture to the boy in which he pointed out the wrong path on which the youth had started and the necessity for him to change his ways.

"You have come to the cross-roads of life," said the court, and the path on which you have started leads direct to the criminal career and a life of crime. You are young and can easily change your course. In sending you to the state reformatory you will be given an opportunity to mend your ways and make good if you only want to.

"The people there will help you all they can to make a man of yourself and it is up to you whether or not you are to become a real man in the community or a criminal and derelict."

It was explained by the judge that the law provided a penitentiary sentence for crimes such as committed by the boy, but that in sentencing the youth to such a place, he would be thrown in the company of hardened criminals and would carry the "jailbird" stigma through life.

ISSUE STATEMENT REGARDING TAX

MISUNDERSTANDING OF PROPER TAX ON SOFT DRINKS

TAX ON FOUNTAIN DRINKS

$10,000 Fine and Imprisonment Provided for Attempt to Dodge Tax —Wide Range of Taxables.

Inquiries received by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and Collectors indicate a misunderstanding on the part of not only a large portion of the public, but dealers themselves regarding the tax on soft drinks, which became effective May 1. Reports reaching the Bureau are that some dealers are not collecting the tax while others are charging extra pennies for drinks which are not taxable.

To correst these mistakes the Bureau has issued the following official statement relating to the collection of the tax:

The tax is one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof on the amount paid at soda fountains, ice cream parlors or similar places of business on soft drinks, ice cream, ice-cream sundaes, "or similar articles of food or drink when sold for consumption in or in proximity to such place of business" The purchaser can not escape the tax by stepping outside of the place where sold to consume his soft drink or ice cream. Ice cream in cones is taxable, because sold under conditions which indicate that it is to be consumed "in or in proximity to the place of business." When ice cream is sold under conditions which indicate that it would usually be consumed in or in proximity to the premises, the fact that the purchaser does not consume it there but carries it away, does not render it free from the tax. Ice cream sold in boxes and ice cream sodas or other soft drinks sold in pitchers or buckets for home consumption are exempt.

Sales of soft drinks, ice cream and similar articles of food and drink in hotels, restaurants, cafeterias and club houses are not taxable unless sold separate and apart from meals. If ice cream or a soft drink is the only refreshment ordered in such places the tax applies. Such sales at soda fountains are taxable even though sold as part of a meal.

In general such beverages commonly known as soft drinks which are compounded or mixed at a soda fountain are subject to the tax. Illustrative of these are orangeade, lemonade, pineapple juice, coca cola, root beer, moxie, phosphates, fruit and flavoring syrups mixed with plain or carbonated water, milk shakes, malted milk shakes, cream and egg shakes, ice cream, ice cream sodas, ice cream sundaes, ice cream sandwiches, and flavored ices.

Certain drinks often sold at soda fountains, ice cream parlors and similar places of business are not taxable. Such beverages are hot beef tea, coffee, tea, buttermilk, milk, hot chocolate or cocoa, hot clam bisque, hot tomato bisque, and hot tomato bouillon. Medicinal preparations such as bromo-seltzer, citrate of magnesia, rochelle salts, seitlets powders, bicarbonate of soda, aromatic spirits of ammonia, epsom salts, essence of pepsin, etc., sold at the fountain also escape the "soft drink" tax. No tax applies on the sale of beverages such as ginger ale, root beer, moxie, mineral water, etc., when served from closed containers, because a manufacturer's tax on such drinks has already been levied.

The tax is on the whole amount of the purchase price. Thus, if a purchaser who "treats" a friend orders two sodas at the same time, each selling for 15 cents, the tax is 3 cents and not 4 cents. If, however, he buys one 15 cent soda and immediately thereafter purchases another 15 cent drink, the tax is 2 cents on each sale. Dealers are advised to guard separate customers against pooling their purchases to escape the tax. The penalty for willfully attempting to evade the tax is a fine of not more than $10,000 or not more than one year's imprisonment, or both, together with the cost of prosecution.

Sales of ice cream and soft drinks by religious, charitable or educational societies on special occasions such as church festivals, picnics, etc., are not taxable. Such sales in stands and booths at agricultural fairs, racing parks, public exhibitions, circuses, shows and similar places are taxable.

HUN NAVY QUESTION UP

Lansing Gives Opinion That Ships Will Become American Property—Expect Germans to Sign.

Paris, May 17.—The big four today began a consideration of reports to the sub-committee, dealing with the German objections to the treaty. Tonight President Wilson will attend the theatrical performance by the members of the Eightieth Division of the American army Despite the news of hostile manifestations in Berlin, the impression prevailed among the delegates here that Germany will sign the treaty. The question of the disposition of the German ships siezed by the United States, is now occupying the attention of the Americans. Secretary Lansing expressed the belief that they will remain American property, being formally taken over by an act of congress. In the present status, the ships are not our property. A proposal was made for the recognition of Omsk by the anti-Bolsheviki government in Siberia, headed by Admiral Holchak, but definite action was deferred.

London, May 17.—The political storm which was aroused by the peace terms s now clearing and more and more re the people making it known that they want Germany to sign, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today. London, May 17.—All three planes have reached the Azores.

Washington, May 17—Cryptic radiograms from the three navy seaplanes on their way to Europe, picked out of the air by the naval radio station at Bar Harbor, Ma., indicated that the planes were in the vicinity of the destroyer Thatcher, Station No. 9, nearly five hundred miles from Trepassey Bay, soon after midnight.

The three machines left Trepassey a few minutes after six o'clock last night and were officially reported as passing, the destroyer Ward, Station ship number 6, three hundred miles out, a little more than four hours later. The next indication of their progress was the intercepted mesages reported by Bar Harbor.

The first written almanacs were probably compiled by the Greeks of Alexandria between 100 and 150 A. D. Calendars are much older, the ancient Romans having proclaimed the first day of the month, and posted a notice of its occurrence in a public place. The first of the month thus came to be called the Kalends, from "I call"-or "I proclaim," and thus the word "calendar" was derived.

NOT TOO OLD TO SMOKE.

Chicago, May 17.—Squire James, negro, was being admitted to the Oak Forest Infirmary.

"My goodness!' said James. "Here I have been saving my money for a long, long time and thought I had enough to see me through until my time come to die; but who'd thought I would live to be 118 years old."

James was much worried regarding regulations at the institution.

"Kin I get a little drink once in a while? And boss, do I gets to keep my pipe and tobaccy sack? I knows both ' dem is bad habits, but I been doing 'em so long I jes can't stop all of a sudden."

Missouri Nears 100th Birthday Of Her Admission to the Union

Most of our states, when they have had such an important birthday as the one hundredth anniversary of admission to the Union, have fittingly celebrated the event. Missouri has such a natal day approaching, but the legislature, which was asked to prepare the foundation for a fitting observance of this important date, did absolutely nothing.

There were lots of other things the legislature did not do—so many, in fact, that the neglect in this particular instance was lost sight of by the public. Missouri, of course, will not allow the failure of the legislature to prevent some sort of a program being drafted and fulfilled. But it will have to be the result of the labors of historical societies and patriotic citizens.

Missouri was formally admitted to the Union August 21, 1821, but it is not proposed to wait until 1921 for the celebration. The constitution of the state preceding its entrance, was adopted June 12, 1820, and the suggestion has been made that the celebration begin on the anniversary of that day.

Though Missouri's application for statehood was filed as early as 1818, it did not take material substance until two years later, when its delegates met in convention and ratified a constitution, a step necessary to admission. The long and acrimonious discussion that preceded the granting of the application has been told in most of the school histories.

When the question of Missouri's admission was before Congress there were other would-be states knocking at the same door and there were politicians in Washington then, just as there are at present. So it came to pass that Missouri and her constitution caused many a discussion and helped to establish the reputation of Henry Clay as an orator.

The "Missouri Compromise."

The "Missouri Compromise" admitted Missouri, but stipulated that slavery should be prohibited from all territory north of the "36 degrees and 30 minutes north latitude," then the southern boundary of Missouri. There was long and bitter controversy following this action, and then came the eventful decision of Justice Roger Taney of the United States Supreme Court, in 1857, declaring the compromise unconstitutional. Under this decree the South had no right to yield to it and the North no right to demand it.

While that decision helped to hurry on the war, it did not put Missouri out of the Union. During the earlier stages of the struggle the state was keenly disputed ground. But that is all ancient history now, and as there are many pleasant things to celebrate, the darker pages of the war and reconstruction will not have to be featured. The celebration will vividly portray the earlier romantic history of the state, and carry us back to Pierre Laclede, Daniel Boone, Lewis and Clark, Senator Thomas Hart Benton, various tribes of Indians, the code duello and other persons and institutions of former days.

When Missouri puts on her best frock and invites the rest of the country to help her celebrate, the visitors who delight in viewing relics of other days will find much to interest them, as the Missouri Historical Society has a very rare collection that will be available. Then there will be Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town in Missouri, which was settled some thirty years in advance of St. Louis by a band of Frenchmen, who came across the river from Kaskaskia settlement looking for gold. They failed in this quest, but they did find an abundance of lead. The mines then prospected have been enormous producers ever since.

First Discovery Uncertain.

There has been some disagreement among historians as to who had the honor of first setting foot on the soil of Missouri, aside from the Indians, who were running things in their own way before any white man came upon the scene. Some hold that Hernando De Soto came in this direction after his discovery of the Mississippi, but others give the distinction to Pere Marquette, Joliet and the others of this party, assuming that they stopped in several places as they came down the Mississippi in their canoes of birch bark, after their discovery of the mouth of the Missouri. This was in 1673, and nine years later came the Chevalier Robert de la Salle and his party to take possession of the entire territory in the name of King Louis XIV. It might be added that De la Salle exploded the myth that the outlet of the Mississippi was in China.

The first American settlers came from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. That they had an abiding faith in their fellow men was attested by their utter indifference to such safeguards as bolts and locks. History shows that they all had flintlock rifles and muskets, but that it was not fashionable to fasten their doors day or night. And when the Indians became restless there were the blockhouses which were always erected in advance of such institutions as churches, schools and courthouses.

When Great Britain took over the territory east of the Mississippi, many of the French settlers there moved across the river. This exodus brought the first recorded boom to Missouri. There had been wars in the past between England and France, and there was prospect of more; hence the French preferred to live under their own flag. When the entire Louisiana Territory was sold to Spain, they were hardly reconciled to the change of allegiance, until the order was reversed. Then they became Yankees through the real estate deal negotiated between President Thomas Jefferson and Napoleon. In those days land grants were given on a broad and liberal basis; accordingly no one was greatly surprised when word came that one James Mackey, living near St. Charles, had received a patent embracing eight thousand acres. It was much easier then to get lands than it was surveys, as surveyors were not only scarce, but the profession was an extra hazardous one. The Indians had a particular aversion to surveyors and surveying instruments, and attacked every party that essayed to establish boundary lines.

Following the coming of the Lewis and Clark expedition, came another large influx of settlers from the original colonies. A few years before this Missouri had opened her arms to receive Daniel Boone, who came from Kentucky with some good rifles and a fine collection of well bred dogs. Boone was not only a high class hunts man, but he had some original ideas about empire building. He induced something like one hundred families to leave their homes in Virginia and Kentucky and cast their fortunes with the fast growing Missouri. For doing this piece of colonization work he received valuable land grants in the Femme Osage country near the present city of St. Charles.

Boone was up in years when he came to Missouri, but that did not deter him from taking a very active part in all things, from the correction of restless Indians to the discovery of salt mines and the introduction of up-to-date hunting and trapping methods.

It was not given this sturdy pioneer to see Missouri enter the Union, as he died in 1820, while the state had its application pending in Congress. It had, however, held its constitutional convention and decreed its terms for admission.

While there has been no definite site chosen as yet, a popular suggestion is to have the big show somewhere between St. Louis and St. Charles. As the latter city was the early capital of the state and was founded quite as early as St. Louis, it is proposed that it be recognized in this historical observance. Among the pioneer institutions featured will be St. Louis University, established in 1829 by state charter, though it had been conducting a mission school for years before. Some other of the earliest institutions calculated to attract attention in view of the present bone dry wave that is scheduled to fall upon the country very shortly will be the first distillery, founded by Auguste Chouteau, a direct descendant of Pierre Laclede, and the first brewery, established in 1810, just two years behind the first newspaper.

Boatmen All Good Shots.

Then there were the first boats on the Mississippi and the Missouri which were awkward, flat-bottomed affairs, not easy of navigation. The early boatmen used to vary the monotony of operating the sweeps by making free use of their rifles, as the Indians had a decided aversion to the navigation of their rivers by the whites. It was more important to be a good rifleman than it was to be a classic pilot, as every cruise was likely to develop into a battle. When it came to making a landing, the shores were always searched for concealed Indians, who, with the spread of civilization, had taken to firearms with a pretty definite knowledge of their use.

The first schoolmasters also had strenuous days making intellectual headway with the offspring of these early pioneers. They will be represented in the exhibits.

For a month or two after the state was admitted, the official seat was maintained at St. Louis in the old territorial office, but when the organization was fully effected, St. Charles became the seat of government, but retained it only five years. A commission finally decided upon Jefferson City because it was upon a river. When this commission was casting about for a site, it is related that a woodsman who was asked for some general directions, gathered the impression that the body was looking for "a capital." He shook his head and assured them he had never heard of any such "beast." Later came the Platte Purchase, with its added mileage to the state's broad confines.

Among her governors, Missouri has had men of varied attainments, some of them taking high rank in the military and others in statecraft and diplomacy, but it is conceded that Governor "Bob" Stewart, who took office in 1857, was the most picturesque. He was not a supporter of any of the various "dry" suggestions that have since become popular. On the contrary, he was the "wettest" governor Missouri ever had, and he made no effort to conceal that fact. It is related that when the legislature was in session while he was governing, he kept open house at all times and a bountiful supply of liquor in the mansion. When he found difficulty in convincing trouble-making senators and representatives in the capitol he usually threshed out the same question in the mansion and got what he wanted.

It is also told that Stewart had strong views on the subject of punishing women for crime. It happened during his term that the first woman convict was brought to Jefferson City to serve a term for killing her husband. Stewart was brought into the case when the sheriff who escorted the woman to the capital was told that the prison had no accommodations for female prisoners. Stewart quickly settled the dilemma by sending the sheriff out of his office and providing the woman with means to get back to her home.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

According to word received yesterday, Edward B. McMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McMillan of this city, who recently met with a severe accident in Chicago, has no internal injuries, but will be confined in the hospital for at least twelve weeks.

The following article, concerning the accident which happened to Mr. McMillan, appeared in a recent issue of the Chicago Evening American:

Edward B. McMillan, 44, 5452 Broadway, a druggist, was seriously injured today when a speeding automobile, owned and driven by Frank Fortmann, 6740 N. Robey street, a Rogers Park florist, became unmanageable and swerved on to the sidewalk at Bryn Mawr avenue and Broadway.

McMillan was taken to the Lake View hospital by the Summerdale avenue police, suffering from a fractured right leg, numerous contusions and a severely lacerated chin and probable internal injuries.

The accident occured shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. McMillan was on his way home when Fortmann swung around the corner at Broadway an Bryn Mawr Ave., at a high rate of speed, it is said.

Before the surprised McMillan could get out of the way it crossed the curbstoone and swung over the curb, striking him after traveling more than 100 feet on the sidewalk. McMillan was thrown about ten feet.

Several passers-by witnessed the accident and told the Summerdale police that Fortmann had been drinking, according to Dective Sergeant Stephen J. Barry, who was assigned to the case.

Fortmann was taken into custody and is being held without booking pending the outcome of McMillan's condition.

SHALL CENTENARY BE CURSE TO CHURCH OR MOUNTAIN?

Bishop Collins Denny Says Everything Depends on Motive Which Methodists Have in View.

"Whether the collection of the Centenary shall be a curse to us or a mountain to stand upon depends upon the motive we have in view," said Bishop Collins Denny in an inspiring sermon on the subject of "The Centenary" at the Broad Street Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Knoxville, recently. "A coin is fine or base according to the metal of which it is made." Bishop Denny recounted the emphasis the Apostle Paul laid upon motives, even not referring to the miracles of Christ in his passion to show His followers that a transformation was necessary in their souls. He compared the great apostle, in the scene before Festus, Agrippa and Bernice, to those characters. "The would could not see the baseness of those and the nobility of Paul," then he said. "But who is the nobleman now in the opinion of men? St. Paul now is glorified, and his condemners are abased. The despised prisoner is one of the world's most illustrious and inspried lights."

Bishop Denny recited the journey of Paul from Damascus to persecute the people of God, and dwelt upon the light that came from heaven to him, that had transformed his life. He stated that while the Christian's light today did not come to him in like manner, it was a presence in souls that had been saved. He quoted scripture to sustain this position. "For God who commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined in my heart to give the light of the know ledge of the glory of God." "God has said again, 'Let there be light.' My heart must be the manger of Bethlehem in which Christ must be born again, or my soul the Joseph's tomb in which He will arise from the dead."

Discoursing on the great opportunity to Methodists in the Centenary movement, the bishop paid tribute to John Wesley, the first to preach a salvation for all men. For this he was branded as a heretic, but the truth has spread over continents. "Are we going to bring that doctrine down, or are we going to raise our practice up to its standard?" he asked. Speaking of the missionary opportunity of the Centenary, Bishop Denny stated the principles that all men need salvation, and that all men may know they have salvation, and that all men should perfect holiness in their lives. Quoting from John Bunyan's words: "O Lord, our hearts were made to rest in Thee and they shall never rest until they do rest in Thee."

FILIPINO FRESHMAN VICTIM OF "RED VIGILS" AT K. U.

Lawrence, Kan., May 17.—Jose V. Cajjucom, a Filipino freshman at the University of Kansas here wants his pants. He also wants the money that was in the pockets and revenge on the students who waylaid him, bound and gagged him, and clipped the hair off one half of his head, before taking his trousers.

Cajjucom is the first victim of the "red vigils" a secret organization of upper classmen sworn to enforce student conference regulations. His offense was refusal to wear the skull cap prescribed for all freshmen.

When informed through the mails by the "red vigils' of his offense he is said to have taken the letter to the Lawrence Chief of Police and asked for protection. The chief is said to have advised him to comply with the student regulations, as police had no jurisdiction.

Disregarding the first warning, Cajucom was "penalized." He was later taken to the Lawrence cemetery, where after his trousers were removed and head shaved, he was left to shift for himself.

COUNTRY ON EVE OF GREAT BUILDING BOOM

Washington, D. C.—The information and education service of the department of labor estimates that the building deficiency in the North Central States as a result of the war is $1,511,200,000. For the North Atlantic States, the survey shows the deficiency to be $1,200,000,000.

In all of the states covered by the survey, building interests and real estate boards report a shortage of residential property, including apartment houses. There is a marked shortage of school buildings and most of the cities report a need of additional business structures.

Department officials think this deficiency must be made up, as well as that the current needs for 1919 must be met, and are encouraging a building boom that is expected within a few months to result in unprecedented building activity, which will do much to stimulate activity in many industrial lines.

Music Used to Conceal Jailbreak.

Springfield, Ill., May 17.—Prisoners in the county jail felt indolent. The confinement was becoming more than incongruous. Suddenly jail attendants heard the plunking of a guitar from within. A mouth harp also blared forth. To this was added vocal selections by musically inclined recreants. The prisoners sought to break the terrible monotony of jail life by this divertisement. But after the music developed into a racket and continued so it began to grate on the tender nerves of the sheriff. He made an investigation and found the hub-bub was designed to cover the machinations of fellow inmates who were assiduously occupied in prying loose several boards preparatory to jail delivery.

NEWS FROM

NODAWAY COUNTY TOWNS

Hopkins Journal.

Cy Wolverton who recently bought the Andrew Hitt eighty, has sold it to Lee Spencer at a profit of $5 an acre. Mr. Hitt and wife are planning to go to Arkansas.

Wilbur Smith, now in the grain business at Bedford, was in Hopkins Wednesday and dropped in at the Journal headquarters for a few minutes. He is a mighty nice man and the better the people of Bedford know him, the better they will like him. He will do to tie to.

Ed Wolfers and wife left last week for Chicago to visit a week or so in the home of their son, Maurice and with Miss Mildred who is studying music in that city.

Felix Brown is a town farmer who yearns for the soil and so long as he can't get out and cultivate the ground, he is doing the next best thing, stocking up his farm 2 miles east of town with high grade cattle to eat the surplus grass from his luxuriant pastures, buying a choice herd of black yearlings from King Bros., Monday.

Harry Clutter received a telegram Monday from his son, Sgt. Halbert Clutter stating that he is now at Camp Pike, Ark., and expects to be mustered out so as to reach home about May 19. Halbert has been in France in the quarter master's department for nearly a year and on account of ability shown was made sergeant some months ago.

Fay Gray, now in France, in a recent letter to his father, Sherm Gray of this city, said, "I am sending you a little watch charm." Sherm looked carefully around, thinking perhaps he had dropped the "charm" when he opened the letter but his search was in vain. However, a few days later, a package containing the charm arrived—a 12-inch brass shell that Sherm has encased in an old woolen sock instead of dangling it on his watch chain. It costs the government ten dollars every time a shell of this caliber is exploded.

It will not be long until all the Hopkins soldier boys will be home—three more arriving this week. Harry Smallwood and Earl Renfro reached home Monday and John Whitten arrived Tuesday noon. These boys all spent a year in France and were mustered out at Camp Funston.

Skidmore News.

A meeting of the business and professional men of Skidmore was held Tuesday evening when an organization was affected to have charge of preparations for the proper observance of Memorial Day on May 30.

F. H. Barrett was chosen president and W. G. Reynolds, secretary.

The southbound passenger last Monday evening brought in another discharged soldier boy in the person of Pierre Karr. Army life has surely agreed with Pierre, since he has been away, he has rounded out into a fine speciman of physical manhood from the strip of a boy he was when he left. He received his discharge at Camp Dodge, Iowa.

Word was received today, by Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Karr that their son, Paul, had arrived safely at Charleston, South Carolina.

Prof. Ross will close his school work in Bolckow Friday, having completed the term of school there for Prof. Hooper, county superintendent of Andrew county, and after a weeks visit with relatives, will take up work with the Jones Chautauqua system as platform man for the summer.

Clyde Strickland, the Duroc Bulletin field man, was here Tuesday looking after the interests of this paper and looking at the various herds of Duroc-Jersey hogs in this territory. He says concerning O. T. Culver's herd of Duroc Jerseys, "Culver has a mighty good herd of hogs this year, all thrifty, long fellows, and well bred. He should have a mighty good sale this fall and deserves the patronage of all lovers of Duroc Jersey hogs."

Conception Courier.

An opportunity is offered to the city by which at a very reasonable price, a site for a city park can be secured. The piece of land referred to is on the main street about four blocks from the depot and is one of the most desirable locations for park purposes that could be obtained.

The Board of Trustees should not let this opportunity pass as it is very doubtful if a piece of ground suitable for this purpose could be procured at the price offered in the future.

The Conception College Base Ball Team will play the Maryville Club on the College grounds Sunday afternoon, May 18, 1919. The College team defeated the All Stars of Guilford last Sunday by a score of 4 to 1.

Mrs. Rheberg of Clyde, received a message Friday noon from St. Paul, Minn., announcing the death of her son, Bert. Death was caused from an operation on the throat. Mrs. Rheberg left that day for St. Paul.

Clearmont News.

Stanley Pence had a fine mare stolen from his barn some time during last Thursday night. He discovered it was gone in the morning, also found tracks of a pony that the thief had evidently ridden when he took the mare. He came to town and got his brother, Robert, and together they started out on a trail in an auto and followed the trail of the pony until they got near Tarkio, and as the trail led that way they hurried on to that place, where they learned that a horse had been left in a pasture over near Fairfax that morning. They at once went to the place where the horse had been left and found that it was Stanley's mare, and that a man had turned the mare in the pasture about 6 o'clock that morning, she being tuckered out. The man was riding a pony and it was also jaded and worn out. The man was seen to turn the mare into the pasture, and as his actions were suspicious, word had been sent around and a farmers protective association in that locality had set about tracing the man and the Pence boys turned the matter over to that organization as they were pretty well fagged out by that time. At this time (Monday) the thief has not been captured. The Pence brothers rested up and came home Saturday morning, feeling good over capturing the horse, but they are now sore at themselves for not pressing on after the thief, as they believe they could have captured him. The association there report that they have lost all trace of the man.

Next Tuesday is Town Election again We hope that the old saying that the third time is the charm, will come true in this case. We also hope that the people will not wait until election day to begin looking around to find candidates.

The farmers are all busy planting corn and if it stays nice a good showing will be made by Saturday night.

"SHIMMY SHIVERS" BEFORE COURT.

Salen, Mass., May 17.—Is it immoral to "shake the shimmy?" Are the devotees of the newest of the new jazz dances guilty of an immoral dance when they perform it.

The Watch and Ward Society says "Yes" to both questions. Joseph Chouinard, proprietor of a dance hall at Beverly, says "No."

Judge Sears, of Salem, acted as a court of last resort. The "shimmy" was danced before him in court. The Judge will decide whether the "shimmy" is to go down in terpsichorean history with the fox trot, the one step and other perfectly proper "jazzes," or whether it is to be taboo in good society.

"POOR JOKE" SAYS HUBBY.

Bridgewater, Mass., May 17.—Charles Brownell of this town was the victim of an "unpractical" joke, in his opinion, when friends of the young man kidnapped his bride following the ceremony, took her to the home of one of the young women conspirators, and held her a prisoner until the following morning.

Shortly after the wedding cake had been cut an auto drew up in front of the door and the appearance of the bride was the signal for action by the kidnappers. She was hurried into the machine, which sped away at full speed. Not until the next morning was she returned to the disgrunteled husband, who admits he failed to see the joke.

Miss Elizabeth Doran of St. Joseph is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Anna Basford.

CLASS OF 1919 COMPLETES WORK

Excellent Address Given by Minister to Graduates on "Service"—Award of Honors and Scholarships.

Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian church, delivered the class day address at the graduating exercises of the class of 1919 last night at the Maryville High School. Rev. W. C. Ferguson opened the exercises with an Invocation, and the class was presented to the Board of Education by Principal L. E. Ziegler. The diplomas were awarded by E. E. Williams and the final number was the award of the scholarships and honors by Supt. J. M. McDonald.

The forty members of the graduating class occupied places of honor on the stage last night and appeared in cap and gown, while a fair sized crowd was present to witness the closing exercises of the school year at Maryville High, and the final high school event of the graduating class.

Rev. Snodgrass, the principal speaker of the evening, took as the keynote of his talk, "Service," and in a strong manner brought before the graduates, the necessity for hard serious work in this life, and the debt which every person owes the community in which he lives.

Rev. Snodgrass illustrated that physical power is a gratifying thing and that strength of body is to be sought, but showed that it is not one of the essentials of a useful life. He also showed that the mind, the great governing power of the human race, may be used for destructive as well as constructive purposes and that it is not the essential factor of a useful and worth while life. Rev. Snodgrass showed that wealth also is not the prime object of life and that riches, often lead to trouble and worry.

The speaker showed that the service which is performed is the thing that counts in this world, and that the man who is performing a utility for his fellowmen and community is invariably the happiest and most contented of persons.

Rev. Snodgrass urged upon the graduates the fact that they are Americans and that nothing is impossible for a real American man or woman. "Americans are the greatest fighters, the greatest workers, and Washington, Lincoln and Wilson are the greatest statesmen the world has ever known," said Rev. Snodgrass, a remark which was greeted with loud applause.

The speaker told of the so-called caste in Great Britain, before the war, in which a certain class known as "gentlemen" did no constructive work for the community, but merely lived as human parasites, and how this class has been practically eradicated since the great war. In the United States they were not known as "gentlemen" said Rev. Snodgrass. "We called them 'tramps.'"

Throughout his talk, Rev. Snodgrass did not confine his remarks to the graduating body, but also spoke to the parents and friends of the students in which he advised the mothers not to have as the prime object of their lives, the marrying of their daughters to rich men.

"The present time is a day of usefulness, work and great opportunities," he said, "and the present day is one of the greatest the world has ever seen for the young person who has a real determination to make good."

At the close of his address, Rev. Snodgrass complimented the members of the class on their work through the past four years and urged upon them that they place a goal before them and continually strive toward it.

Following the talk by Rev. Snodgrass, Principal Zeigler made a short presetation address in which he delivered the class over to the Board of Education. Principal Ziegler congratulated the members on their successful work and upon their loyalty to the institution and their earnest efforts.

In awarding the diplomas Mr. E. E. Williams also congratulated the class on the excellent record which they had made in the school. He said that it is the largest class that has ever left Maryville High and that it has also been one of the best all-around classes in the history of the institution.

In the final award of the Scholarships and Honors Superintendent J. M. McDonald made a brief address of congratulation. Miss Sadie Neal, with an average grade of 94.50 per cent for the four years was the highest honor student of the class, and was awarded Scholarships from the University of Missouri at Columbia and the Missouri College Union, in which she is given the choice of any of the colleges taken in by this affiliation. Miss Roberta Wells was the winner of second honors with an average grade of 92.94 per cent and was awarded the scholarship offered by the State Normal school.

In making the announcement, Supt. McDonald read the grade made by Miss Neal as 90.50, an error which he asked to be corrected in the Press. He also stated that the graduating class includes the students who completed their high school work last February bringing the total number up to fifty.

LECTURE BY THE COURT

R. W. Carter, the 17 year old youth of Meadville, Mo., who was recently arrested at Brookfield, Mo., following the passage of several worthless checks on the State bank at Hopkins, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Dawson in the circuit court this morning and was sentenced to three years in the Reformatory at Booneville.

In passing the sentence Judge Dawson delivered a fatherly lecture to the boy in which he pointed out the wrong path on which the youth had started and the necessity for him to change his ways.

"You have come to the cross-roads of life," said the court, and the path on which you have started leads direct to the criminal career and a life of crime. You are young and can easily change your course. In sending you to the state reformatory you will be given an opportunity to mend your ways and make good if you only want to.

"The people there will help you all they can to make a man of yourself and it is up to you whether or not you are to become a real man in the community or a criminal and derelict."

It was explained by the judge that the law provided a penitentiary sentence for crimes such as committed by the boy, but that in sentencing the youth to such a place, he would be thrown in the company of hardened criminals and would carry the "jailbird" stigma through life.

TAX ON FOUNTAIN DRINKS

$10,000 Fine and Imprisonment Provided for Attempt to Dodge Tax —Wide Range of Taxables.

Inquiries received by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and Collectors indicate a misunderstanding on the part of not only a large portion of the public, but dealers themselves regarding the tax on soft drinks, which became effective May 1. Reports reaching the Bureau are that some dealers are not collecting the tax while others are charging extra pennies for drinks which are not taxable.

To correct these mistakes the Bureau has issued the following official statement relating to the collection of the tax:

The tax is one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof on the amount paid at soda fountains, ice cream parlors or similar places of business on soft drinks, ice cream, ice-cream sundaes, "or similar articles of food or drink when sold for consumption in or in proximity to such place of business" The purchaser can not escape the tax by stepping outside of the place where sold to consume his soft drink or ice cream. Ice cream in cones is taxable, because sold under conditions which indicate that it is to be consumed "in or in proximity to the place of business." When ice cream is sold under conditions which indicate that it would usually be consumed in or in proximity to the premises, the fact that the purchaser does not consume it there but carries it away, does not render it free from the tax. Ice cream sold in boxes and ice cream sodas or other soft drinks sold in pitchers or buckets for home consumption are exempt.

Sales of soft drinks, ice cream and similar articles of food and drink in hotels, restaurants, cafeterias and club houses are not taxable unless sold separate and apart from meals. If ice cream or a soft drink is the only refreshment ordered in such places the tax applies. Such sales at soda fountains are taxable even though sold as part of a meal.

In general such beverages commonly known as soft drinks which are compounded or mixed at a soda fountain are subject to the tax. Illustrative of these are orangeade, lemonade, pineapple juice, coca cola, root beer, moxie, phosphates, fruit and flavoring syrups mixed with plain or carbonated water, milk shakes, malted milk shakes, cream and egg shakes, ice cream, ice cream sodas, ice cream sundaes, ice cream sandwiches, and flavored ices.

Certain drinks often sold at soda fountains, ice cream parlors and similar places of business are not taxable. Such beverages are hot beef tea, coffee, tea, buttermilk, milk, hot chocolate or cocoa, hot clam bisque, hot tomato bisque, and hot tomato bouillon. Medicinal preparations such as bromoseltzer, citrate of magnesia, rochelle salts, seitlets powders, bicarbonate of soda, aromatic spirits of ammonia, epsom salts, essence of pepsin, etc., sold at the fountain also escape the "soft drink" tax. No tax applies on the sale of beverages such as ginger ale, root beer, moxie, mineral water, etc., when served from closed containers, because a manufacturer's tax on such drinks has already been levied.

The tax is on the whole amount of the purchase price. Thus, if a purchaser who "treats" a friend orders two sodas at the same time, each selling for 15 cents, the tax is 3 cents and not 4 cents. If, however, he buys one 15 cent soda and immediately thereafter purchases another 15 cent drink, the tax is 2 cents on each sale. Dealers are advised to guard separate customers against pooling their purchases to escape the tax. The penalty for willfully attempting to evade the tax is a fine of not more than $10,000 or not more than one year's imprisonment, or both, together with the cost of prosecution.

Sales of ice cream and soft drinks by religious, charitable or educational societies on special occasions such as church festivals, picnics, etc., are not taxable. Such sales in stands and booths at agricultural fairs, racing parks, public exhibitions, circuses, shows and similar places are taxable.

HUN NAVY QUESTION UP

Paris, May 17.—The big four today began a consideration of reports to the sub-committee, dealing with the German objections to the treaty. Tonight President Wilson will attend the theatrical performance by the members of the Eightieth Division of the American army Despite the news of hostile manifestations in Berlin, the impression prevailed among the delegates here that Germany will sign the treaty. The question of the disposition of the German ships siezed by the United States, is now occupying the attention of the Americans. Secretary Lansing expressed the belief that they will remain American property, being formally taken over by an act of congress. In the present status, the ships are not our property. A proposal was made for the recognition of Omsk by the anti-Bolsheviki government in Siberia, headed by Admiral Holchak, but definite action was deferred.

London, May 17.—The political storm which was aroused by the peace terms is now clearing and more and more the people making it known that they want Germany to sign, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today. The position is shared be some of the cabinet members, the dispatch added.

Lieutenant Commander M. C. Reed, in charge of the NC-4 made the trip in fifteen hours and eighteen minutes for thirteen hundred miles, or an average of ninety miles per hour. He arrived here ahead of his schedule.

London, May 17.—All three planes have reached the Azores.

Washington, May 17—Cryptic radiograms from the three navy seaplanes on their way to Europe, picked out of the air by the naval radio station at Bar Harbor, Ma., indicated that the planes were in the vicinity of the destroyer Thatcher, Station No. 9, nearly five hundred miles from Trepassey Bay, soon after midnight.

The three machines left Trepassey a few minutes after six o'clock last night and were officially reported as passing the destroyer Ward, Station ship number 6, three hundred miles out, a little more than four hours later. The next indication of their progress was the intercepted mesages reported by Bar Harbor.

Calendars are much older, the ancient Romans having proclaimed the first day of the month, and posted a notice of its occurrence in a public place. Missouri Nears 100th Birthday Of Her Admission to the Union

Most of our states, when they have had such an important birthday as the one hundredth anniversary of admission to the Union, have fittingly celebrated the event. Missouri has such a natal day approaching, but the legislature, which was asked to prepare the foundation for a fitting observance of this important date, did absolutely nothing.

There were lots of other things the legislature did not do—so many, in fact, that the neglect in this particular instance was lost sight of by the public. Missouri, of course, will not allow the failure of the legislature to prevent some sort of a program being drafted and fulfilled. But it will have to be the result of the labors of historical societies and patriotic citizens.

Missouri was formally admitted to the Union August 21, 1821, but it is not proposed to wait until 1921 for the celebration. The constitution of the state preceding its entrance, was adopted June 12, 1820, and the suggestion has been made that the celebration begin on the anniversary of that day.

Though Missouri's application for statehood was filed as early as 1818, it did not take material substance until two years later, when its delegates met in convention and ratified a constitution, a step necessary to admission. The long and acrimonious discussion that preceded the granting of the application has been told in most of the school histories.

When the question of Missouri's admission was before Congress there were other would-be states knocking at the same door and there were politicians in Washington then, just as there are at present. So it came to pass that Missouri and her constitution caused many a discussion and helped to establish the reputation of Henry Clay as an orator.

The "Missouri Compromise."

The "Missouri Compromise" admitted Missouri, but stipulated that slavery should be prohibited from all territory north of the "36 degrees and 30 minutes north latitude," then the southern boundary of Missouri. There was long and bitter controversy following this action, and then came the eventful decision of Justice Roger Taney of the United States Supreme Court, in 1857, declaring the compromise unconstitutional. Under this decree the South had no right to yield to it and the North no right to demand it.

While that decision helped to hurry on the war, it did not put Missouri out of the Union. During the earlier stages of the struggle the state was keenly disputed ground. But that is all ancient history now, and as there are many pleasant things to celebrate, the darker pages of the war and reconstruction will not have to be featured. The celebration will vividly portray the earlier romantic history of the state, and carry us back to Pierre Laclede, Daniel Boone, Lewis and Clark, Senator Thomas Hart Benton, various tribes of Indians, the code duello and other persons and institutions of former days.

When Missouri puts on her best frock and invites the rest of the country to help her celebrate, the visitors who delight in viewing relics of other days will find much to interest them, as the Missouri Historical Society has a very rare collection that will be available. Then there will be Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town in Missouri, which was settled some thirty years in advance of St. Louis by a band of Frenchmen, who came across the river from Kaskaskia settlement looking for gold. They failed in this quest, but they did find an abundance of lead. The mines then prospected have been enormous producers ever since.

First Discovery Uncertain.

There has been some disagreement among historians as to who had the honor of first setting foot on the soil of Missouri, aside from the Indians, who were running things in their own way before any white man came upon the scene. Some hold that Hernando De Soto came in this direction after his discovery of the Mississippi, but others give the distinction to Pere Marquette, Joliet and the others of this party, assuming that they stopped in several places as they came down the Mississippi in their canoes of birch bark, after their discovery of the mouth of the Missouri. This was in 1673, and nine years later came the Chevalier Robert de la Salle and his party to take possession of the entire territory in the name of King Louis XIV. It might be added that De la Salle exploded the myth that the outlet of the Mississippi was in China.

The first American settlers came from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. That they had an abiding faith in their fellow men was attested by their utter indifference to such safeguards as bolts and locks. History shows that they all had flintlock rifles and muskets, but that it was not fashionable to fasten their doors day or night. And when the Indians became restless there were the blockhouses which were always erected in advance of such institutions as churches, schools and courthouses.

When Great Britain took over the territory east of the Mississippi, many of the French settlers there moved across the river. This exodus brought the first recorded boom to Missouri. There had been wars in the past between England and France, and there was prospect of more; hence the French preferred to live under their own flag. When the entire Louisiana Territory was sold to Spain, they were hardly reconciled to the change of allegiance, until the order was reversed. Then they became Yankees through the real estate deal negotiated between President Thomas Jefferson and Napoleon. In those days land grants were given on a broad and liberal basis; accordingly no one was greatly surprised when word came that one James Mackey, living near St. Charles, had received a patent embracing eight thousand acres. It was much easier then to get lands than it was surveys, as surveyors were not only scarce, but the profession was an extra hazardous one. The Indians had a particular aversion to surveyors and surveying instruments, and attacked every party that essayed to establish boundary lines.

Following the coming of the Lewis and Clark expedition, came another large influx of settlers from the original colonies. A few years before this Missouri had opened her arms to receive Daniel Boone, who came from Kentucky with some good rifles and a fine collection of well bred dogs. Boone was not only a high class hunts man, but he had some original ideas about empire building. He induced something like one hundred families to leave their homes in Virginia and Kentucky and cast their fortunes with the fast growing Missouri. For doing this piece of colonization work he received valuable land grants in the Femme Osage country near the present city of St. Charles.

Boone was up in years when he came to Missouri, but that did not deter him from taking a very active part in all things, from the correction of restless Indians to the discovery of salt mines and the introduction of up-to-date hunting and trapping methods.

It was not given this sturdy pioneer to see Missouri enter the Union, as he died in 1820, while the state had its application pending in Congress. It had, however, held its constitutional convention and decreed its terms for admission.

While there has been no definite site chosen as yet, a popular suggestion is to have the big show somewhere between St. Louis and St. Charles. As the latter city was the early capital of the state and was founded quite as early as St. Louis, it is proposed that it be recognized in this historical observance. Among the pioneer institutions featured will be St. Louis University, established in 1829 by state charter, though it had been conducting a mission school for years before. Some other of the earliest institutions calculated to attract attention in view of the present bone dry wave that is scheduled to fall upon the country very shortly will be the first distillery, founded by Auguste Chouteau, a direct descendant of Pierre Laclede, and the first brewery, established in 1810, just two years behind the first newspaper.

Boatmen All Good Shots.

Then there were the first boats on the Mississippi and the Missouri which were awkward, flat-bottomed affairs, not easy of navigation. The early boatmen used to vary the monotony of operating the sweeps by making free use of their rifles, as the Indians had a decided aversion to the navigation of their rivers by the whites. It was more important to be a good rifleman than it was to be a classic pilot, as every cruise was likely to develop into a battle. When it came to making a landing, the shores were always searched for concealed Indians, who, with the spread of civilization, had taken to firearms with a pretty definite knowledge of their use.

The first schoolmasters also had strenuous days making intellectual headway with the offspring of these early pioneers. They will be represented in the exhibits.

For a month or two after the state was admitted, the official seat was maintained at St. Louis in the old territorial office, but when the organization was fully effected, St. Charles became the seat of government, but retained it only five years. A commission finally decided upon Jefferson City because it was upon a river. When this commission was casting about for a site, it is related that a woodsman who was asked for some general directions, gathered the impression that the body was looking for "a capital." He shook his head and assured them he had never heard of any such "beast." Later came the Platte Purchase, with its added mileage to the state's broad confines.

Among her governors, Missouri has had men of varied attainments, some of them taking high rank in the military and others in statecraft and diplomacy, but it is conceded that Governor "Bob" Stewart, who took office in 1857, was the most picturesque. He was not a supporter of any of the various "dry" suggestions that have since become popular. On the contrary, he was the "wettest" governor Missouri ever had, and he made no effort to conceal that fact. It is related that when the legislature was in session while he was governing, he kept open house at all times and a bountiful supply of liquor in the mansion. When he found difficulty in convincing trouble-making senators and representatives in the capitol he usually threshed out the same question in the mansion and got what he wanted.

It is also told that Stewart had strong views on the subject of punishing women for crime. It happened during his term that the first woman convict was brought to Jefferson City to serve a term for killing her husband. Stewart was brought into the case when the sheriff who escorted the woman to the capital was told that the prison had no accommodations for female prisoners. Stewart quickly settled the dilemma by sending the sheriff out of his office and providing the woman with means to get back to her home.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Edward B. McMillan, 44, 5452 Broadway, a druggist, was seriously injured today when a speeding automobile, owned and driven by Frank Fortmann, 6740 N. Robey street, a Rogers Park florist, became unmanageable and swerved on to the sidewalk at Bryn Mawr avenue and Broadway.

SHALL CENTENARY BE CURSE TO CHURCH OR MOUNTAIN?

"Whether the collection of the Centenary shall be a curse to us or a mountain to stand upon depends upon the motive we have in view," said Bishop Collins Denny in an inspiring sermon on the subject of "The Centenary" at the Broad Street Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Knoxville, recently. "A coin is fine or base according to the metal of which it is made." Bishop Denny recounted the emphasis the Apostle Paul laid upon motives, even not referring to the miracles of Christ in his passion to show His followers that a transformation was necessary in their souls. He compared the great apostle, in the scene before Festus, Agrippa and Bernice, to those characters. "The would could not see the baseness of those and the nobility of Paul," then he said. "But who is the nobleman now in the opinion of men? St. Paul now is glorified, and his condemners are abased. The despised prisoner is one of the world's most illustrious and inspried lights."

Bishop Denny recited the journey of Paul from Damascus to persecute the people of God, and dwelt upon the light that came from heaven to him, that had transformed his life. He stated that while the Christian's light today did not come to him in like manner, it was a presence in souls that had been saved. He quoted scripture to sustain this position. "For God who commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined in my heart to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God." "God has said again, 'Let there be light.' My heart must be the manger of Bethlehem in which Christ must be born again, or my soul the Joseph's tomb in which He will arise from the dead."

Discoursing on the great opportunity to Methodists in the Centenary movement, the bishop paid tribute to John Wesley, the first to preach a salvation for all men. For this he was branded as a heretic, but the truth has spread over continents. "Are we going to bring that doctrine down, or are we going to raise our practice up to its standard?" he asked. Speaking of the missionary opportunity of the Centenary, Bishop Denny stated the principles that all men need salvation, and that all men may know they have salvation, and that all men should perfect holiness in their lives. Quoting from John Bunyan's words: "O Lord, our hearts were made to rest in Thee and they shall never rest until they do rest in Thee."

FILIPINO FRESHMAN VICTIM OF "RED VIGILS" AT K. U.

Lawrence, Kan., May 17.—Jose V. Cajjucom, a Filipino freshman at the University of Kansas here wants his pants. He also wants the money that was in the pockets and revenge on the students who waylaid him, bound and gagged him, and clipped the hair off one half of his head, before taking his trousers.

Cajjucom is the first victim of the "red vigils" a secret organization of upper classmen sworn to enforce student conference regulations. His offense was refusal to wear the skull cap prescribed for all freshmen.

When informed through the mails by the "red vigils' of his offense he is said to have taken the letter to the Lawrence Chief of Police and asked for protection. The chief is said to have advised him to comply with the student regulations, as police had no jurisdiction.

Disregarding the first warning, Cajucom was "penalized." He was later taken to the Lawrence cemetery, where after his trousers were removed and head shaved, he was left to shift for himself.

COUNTRY ON EVE OF GREAT BUILDING BOOM

Washington, D. C.—The information and education service of the department of labor estimates that the building deficiency in the North Central States as a result of the war is $1,511,200,000. For the North Atlantic States, the survey shows the deficiency to be $1,200,000,000.

In all of the states covered by the survey, building interests and real estate boards report a shortage of residential property, including apartment houses. There is a marked shortage of school buildings and most of the cities report a need of additional business structures.

Department officials think this deficiency must be made up, as well as that the current needs for 1919 must be met, and are encouraging a building boom that is expected within a few months to result in unprecedented building activity, which will do much to stimulate activity in many industrial lines.

Music Used to Conceal Jailbreak.

Springfield, Ill., May 17.—Prisoners in the county jail felt indolent. The confinement was becoming more than incongruous. Suddenly jail attendants heard the plunking of a guitar from within. A mouth harp also blared forth. To this was added vocal selections by musically inclined recreants. The prisoners sought to break the terrible monotony of jail life by this divertisement. But after the music developed into a racket and continued so it began to grate on the tender nerves of the sheriff. He made an investigation and found the hub-bub was designed to cover the machinations of fellow inmates who were assiduously occupied in prying loose several boards preparatory to jail delivery.

Active Age Proves Real Quality

Like warriors grown gray in harness, and white-haired employes still on the job, a scuffed and scarred set of Silvertown Cords on an ancient car somehow best tells the story of the matchless service of these patrician tires.

• • •

The graceful, well-groomed elegance, with which they when new adorn, smart cars, may be shabby; their tough tread worn smooth; but their distinction remains.

In their age, you read the history of their wonderful endurance; their useful career of miles and miles of road roughing.

• • •

Hopkins Journal.

Cy Wolverton who recently bought the Andrew Hitt eighty, has sold it to Lee Spencer at a profit of $5 an acre. Mr. Hitt and wife are planning to go to Arkansas.

Wilbur Smith, now in the grain business at Bedford, was in Hopkins Wednesday and dropped in at the Journal headquarters for a few minutes. He is a mighty nice man and the better the people of Bedford know him, the better they will like him. He will do to tie to.

Ed Wolfers and wife left last week for Chicago to visit a week or so in the home of their son, Maurice and with Miss Mildred who is studying music in that city.

Felix Brown is a town farmer who yearns for the soil and so long as he can't get out and cultivate the ground, he is doing the next best thing, stocking up his farm 2 miles east of town with high grade cattle to eat the surplus grass from his luxuriant pastures, buying a choice herd of black yearlings from King Bros., Monday.

Harry Clutter received a telegram Monday from his son, Sgt. Halbert Clutter stating that he is now at Camp Pike, Ark., and expects to be mustered out so as to reach home about May 19. Halbert has been in France in the quarter master's department for nearly a year and on account of ability shown was made sergeant some months ago.

Fay Gray, now in France, in a recent letter to his father, Sherm Gray of this city, said, "I am sending you a little watch charm." Sherm looked carefully around, thinking perhaps he had dropped the "charm" when he opened the letter but his search was in vain. However, a few days later, a package containing the charm arrived—a 12-inch brass shell that Sherm has encased in an old woolen sock instead of dangling it on his watch chain. It costs the government ten dollars every time a shell of this caliber is exploded.

It will not be long until all the Hopkins soldier boys will be home—three more arriving this week. Harry Smallwood and Earl Renfro reached home Monday and John Whitten arrived Tuesday noon. These boys all spent a year in France and were mustered out at Camp Funston.

Skidmore News.

A meeting of the business and professional men of Skidmore was held Tuesday evening when an organization was affected to have charge of preparations for the proper observance of Memorial Day on May 30.

F. H. Barrett was chosen president and W. G. Reynolds, secretary.

The southbound passenger last Monday evening brought in another discharged soldier boy in the person of Pierre Karr. Army life has surely agreed with Pierre, since he has been away, he has rounded out into a fine speciman of physical manhood from the strip of a boy he was when he left. He received his discharge at Camp Dodge, Iowa.

Word was received today, by Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Karr that their son, Paul, had arrived safely at Charleston, South Carolina.

H. C. Wright, representing an exclusive bank building firm of St. Paul, Minn., was in the city Monday to look over the site and ascertain the requirements of the new building to be erected by the First National bank here.

Some of the material for the Rees-Barber garage building has arrived and active operations are expected to be on in the near future. The site has been cleared and builders are only awaiting arrival of the remainder of the material.

Elmo Register.

The Lincoln Township Board met last Saturday. Not much business was done except ordinary routine work, except the appointment of James Honaker as driver for the new tractor, and Samuel R. Johnston as manager of the grader. Their wages were fixed at 50 cents an hour for the time actually at work.

Mrs. B. H. Smallwood has received word that her brother, Private Curtis H. Betty, of the Signal Corps, 3rd division, who was captured by the Germans at Chateau Thierry on July 15th, and held in Rastatt Prison Camp until the signing of the armistice has returned to his home in Colorado, and is in good health.

Barnard Bulletin.

Prof. Ross will close his school work in Bolckow Friday, having completed the term of school there for Prof. Hooper, county superintendent of Andrew county, and after a weeks visit with relatives, will take up work with the Jones Chautauqua system as platform man for the summer.

Clyde Strickland, the Duroc Bulletin field man, was here Tuesday looking after the interests of this paper and looking at the various herds of Duroc-Jersey hogs in this territory. He says concerning O. T. Culver's herd of Duroc Jerseys, "Culver has a mightly good herd of hogs this year, all thrifty, long fellows, and well bred. He should have a mightly good sale this fall and deserves the patronage of all lovers of Duroc Jersey hogs."

Parnell Sentinel.

L. V. Arnold received Tuesday from his son, George, who is now in Germany with the A. E. F., (if he hasn't already started for home) several souvenirs. One of them being a German officer's badge in the shape of a silver watch fob, some views of the famous Rhine river, cartridge belt, shrapnell shell, etc. It is expected that he will be home within the next few weeks.

Isn't it about time something was being done toward our Fourth of July celebration? A meeting should be held soon and committees appointed to look after arrangements. Let's get busy.

Guilford Times.

A few days ago, C. C. Reynolds purchased the lots and buildings now occupied by Coffey's Cafe and the Furniture store. Consideration $1650. Mr. Reynolds contemplates the erection of two store buildings, at least 80 ft. by 22 ft, on the lots this fall. He is already making cement blocks and will commence to build about September.

Last Tuesday J. R. Nelson purchased of C. E. Nelson the building and lot where he is conducting his poultry and feed store. Consideration $1350.

Conception Courier.

An opportunity is offered to the city by which at a very reasonable price, a site for a city park can be secured. The piece of land referred to is on the main street about four blocks from the depot and is one of the most desirable locations for park purposes that could be obtained.

The Board of Trustees should not let this opportunity pass as it is very doubtful if a piece of ground suitable for this purpose could be procured at the price offered in the future.

The Conception College Base Ball Team will play the Maryville Club on the College grounds Sunday afternoon, May 18, 1919. The College team defeated the All Stars of Guilford last Sunday by a score of 4 to 1.

Mrs. Rheberg of Clyde, received a message Friday noon from St. Paul, Minn., announcing the death of her son, Bert. Death was caused from an operation on the throat. Mrs. Rheberg left that day for St. Paul.

Clearmont News.

Stanley Pence had a fine mare stolen from his barn some time during last Thursday night. He discovered it was gone in the morning, also found tracks of a pony that the thief had evidently ridden when he took the mare. He came to town and got his brother, Robert, and together they started out on a trail in an auto and followed the trail of the pony until they got near Tarkio, and as the trail led that way they hurried on to that place, where they learned that a horse had been left in a pasture over near Fairfax that morning. They at once went to the place where the horse had been left and found that it was Stanley's mare, and that a man had turned the mare in the pasture about 6 o'clock that morning, she being tuckered out. The man was riding a pony and it was also jaded and worn out. The man was seen to turn the mare into the pasture, and as his actions were suspicious, word had been sent around and a farmers protective association in that locality had set about tracing the man and the Pence boys turned the matter over to that organization as they were pretty well fagged out by that time. At this time (Monday) the thief has not been captured. The Pence brothers rested up and came home Saturday morning, feeling good over capturing the horse, but they are now sore at themselves for not pressing on after the thief, as they believe they could have captured him. The association there report that they have lost all trace of the man.

Next Tuesday is Town Election again We hope that the old saying that the third time is the charm, will come true in this case. We also hope that the people will not wait until election day to begin looking around to find candidates.

The farmers are all busy planting corn and if it stays nice a good showing will be made by Saturday night.

"SHIMMY SHIVERS" BEFORE COURT.

Salen, Mass., May 17.—Is it immoral to "shake the shimmy?" Are the devotees of the newest of the new jazz dances guilty of an immoral dance when they perform it.

The Watch and Ward Society says "Yes" to both questions. Joseph Chouinard, proprietor of a dance hall at Beverly, says "No."

Judge Sears, of Salem, acted as a court of last resort. The "shimmy" was danced before him in court. The Judge will decide whether the "shimmy" is to go down in terpsichorean history with the fox trot, the one step and other perfectly proper "jazzes," or whether it is to be taboo in good society.

"POOR JOKE" SAYS HUBBY.

Bridgewater, Mass., May 17.—Charles Brownell of this town was the victim of an "unpractical" joke, in his opinion, when friends of the young man kidnapped his bride following the ceremony, took her to the home of one of the young women conspirators, and held her a prisoner until the following morning.

Shortly after the wedding cake had been cut an auto drew up in front of the door and the appearance of the bride was the signal for action by the kidnappers. She was hurried into the machine, which sped away at full speed. Not until the next morning was she returned to the disgrunteled husband, who admits he failed to see the joke.

Miss Elizabeth Doran of St. Joseph is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Anna Basford.

"LET'S GO"

It is the opinion of F. G. Shoemaker that the Coal situation this fall on all high grade coals will be as bad or worse than in former years. His reasons are, labor troubles, car shortage, no zone restrictions, unsettled business conditions and the delay of consumers in placing their orders who are able to store their winter supply. For that reason have placed orders for a large tonnage or Anthracite Coal, Coke, Radiant Cannel and Illinois Lump and Egg. The best for which we have had the exclusive sale for years.

THE. F. G. SHOEMAKER-BOVARD TRANSFER AND STORAGE CO.,
